Polyflor recycle internationally and have actively supported Vinyl 2010 and now the Vinyl 2020 Commitment. Following on from the successful Waste and Resources Action Program (WRAP) initiative 'Recycle Your Vinyl Flooring' - which was a trial for recovering end of life vinyl flooring, Polyflor is one of two founding members of Recofloor, the industry funded vinyl take-back scheme. www.wrap.org.uk

As more people get on board with the Recofloor scheme we will see even more waste vinyl flooring being recycled and even less going to landfill. Through the scheme safety flooring off-cuts and smooth vinyl off-cuts from the installation process will be recycled back into new flooring. Uplifted, or end-of-life material will be downcycled into traffic calming products such as traffic cone and road barrier bases.

For vinyl flooring, between 5% and 10% is typically wasted as off-cuts on projects, depending on the shape of the area that the flooring is being laid on. This material would normally be taken away by a waste contractor and landfilled locally.

Polyflor in Australia and New Zealand have recycled since 2010 a total of 112 tonnes of vinyl flooring.

How it works!

Client telephones POLYFLOR in AUSTRALIA: 1800 777 425 or NEW ZEALAND: 0800 425 783 to register interest with Recofloor.

Polyflor will dispatch the recycle bins to client.

When the recycle bins are full, client telephones Polyflor in AUS or NZ to book a collection.

Alternatively, vinyl flooring waste can be dropped off at one of 14 sites across Aus & NZ. See list of drop-off sites on the back cover.
