Polyflor was honoured to take part in the Sydney Children's Hospital project that was co-ordinated by channel 9's TV program A Current Affair. The hospital required both structural and aesthetic renovations to the therapy and rehabilitation rooms which are used for children recovering from horrible illnesses or tragic accidents. The flooring was replaced with approximately 230m² of Polyflor's Classic Mystique and 2000 PUR vinyl sheet flooring ranges and was installed by OzFlor.

The shades Mountain Lake 1330, Saffron 8490 and Glacier Blue 8450 were chosen to tie in with the Sydney Children's Hospital logo and bring colour to the overall space. The flooring also had a bespoke design with circular cut outs to create a nice feature and add character. The hospital transformation was spectacular and will make a huge difference to these children and their families. The story went to air on A Current Affair on the 5th of June 2015.
